

I had to share this amazing magical moment we had Christmas morning -- Hayden usually is not a morning person but on xmas morning he was smiling and really got the idea of presents.....I asked that Kate sit in his lap -- (he usually pushes her off) but he wrapped his arms around her and stuck his head out with the biggest smile -- it was MY Christmas present from him... and I will cherish it because in our world these little things are HUGE!!!

